You've Always Dreamed About.

For generations, from Mona Lisa to the 'Cover Girl', the absence or presence of a smile has always carried a great significance. Throughout history, the quality of a smile has been an indication of an individual's sense of well-being.

And today, a healthy, attractive smile continues to be an important facet of life, with an impact on health, self esteem and relationships, both professional and personal.

Create the Smile You Most Desire

Until recently, people were stuck with the smile they received from birth. Today, there are techniques and advanced materials, that can make a real difference in your smile, and Dr. Stanleigh has helped enhance the smiles of people from around the world.

It all starts with a half-hour smile consult. Dr Stanleigh will talk to you about how you feel about your smile, what changes you would like to consider, and what you would like the outcome to be. We would take digital pictures of your face and smile and look at them with you to examine the whole range of treatment options available to you.
